Scorpion 86 and Eagle Texa

It is winter in Montana! We have begun seeing double digit negative temperatures already; which is, probably why we are frequently asked about how our longhorns tolerate our extremely brutal temperatures. Where we are located, we are known to have some of the highest of highs and lowest of lows. It is a good thing longhorns are naturally extra hearty animals, but without windbreaks longhorns will freeze their horns. Knowing this, we have recently built an additional lean to for extra shelter. Freezing horns is a risk we are not willing to take. We try to take all preventative measures possible to ensure good health in every aspect of our longhorns.
